Liberty Fairs Show NYC July 2014

Liberty Fairs New York City opened yesterday at Pier 94 located on Manhattan's water front. Headed up by Sam Ben Avraham and Sharifa Murdock, the show is a collection of men's brands who view fashion as part of the fabric of an artful culture and way of life. On that note, it was hard not to be drawn to the Freedom Hall section of the show. Curated by Ougi Theodore of The Brooklyn Circus, plus Sam Lambert and Shaka Maidoh of Art Comes First, its brands and displays were rich with life, paying tribute as many did to the various cultural influences both past and present that inspire their designs. Other noteworthy section include The Drugstore, curated by David Pirrotta, plus on-site hat customization provided by Knickerbocker and Liberty Fairs. The show also had complementary coffee and beer bars. Liberty Fairs continues today and tomorrow. Many more images below, all by Lois Sakany of TheSnobette.
