Not too long ago we brought you guys a very, very good video of the Liberty Fairs NY tradeshow that we were extremely impressed with, on account of how new Liberty was on the scene. Today, we have for you guys the next heat rock of a video Liberty Fairs released of its Las Vegas show and we're officially going to say it: Liberty Fairs is slitting throats and taking no tradeshow prisoners.

Little known fact: the #ANTENNASQUAD was in the building during men's tradeshow week in Las Vegas, and we had the luck to visit Liberty Fairs. The show was packed to the brim with a brand list as extensive as the STD index at a Vegas health clinic, and Liberty spared no expense in trying to provide the best atmosphere possible for people to check out cool fucking clothes.

The tradeshow also had all of the "heavy hitters" of the #menswear industry (oxymoron — its menswear and nobody is actually important) which are featured in the video along with Hudson Mohawke's fire ass jam, "Chimes," to set the mood and make you really feel like shit for missing out. Atif Ateeq, creator of the videos, is really killing it with the visuals and is consistently putting out bigger and better things, so be sure to look out for that name in the future.

All in all this was another consistent showing from Liberty Fairs and we're excited to see what the brain trust over there has in store for the next men's tradeshow season.

Kick back, watch some of the awesome visuals, and break your neck to the sounds of HudMo blaring out of your speakers.
