

ABOUT ADVERTISE BLOG CONNECT ISSUES MIXTAPES THE CREW VIDEOS

Liberty Fairs – Las Vegas 2015

by Marc Mangapit on 02/27/2015

Next door to the Agenda Trade Show housed the ever evolving Liberty Fairs Trade Show. While many streetwear clients may have stuck to the aisles of Agenda, Liberty had all the other brands in between. We saw everything from classic Americana clothing to grooming products and even up and coming brands that are making their debut to the world of fashion. Every season they carefully create a theme that can be visible throughout the show. For this latest season there were dark cloud prints on the walls, an entrance hallway that resembled space exploration, and to complete the theme, a giant floating moon. It was something Pharrell might have conjured up if he tried to mix fashion and the universe. Oh wait, he did that already. Still, this trade show was made by fashion heads for fashion heads. Click through our photo coverage after the jump.

Birchbox is a monthly delivery service of grooming products, packed in small sample sizes for testing.

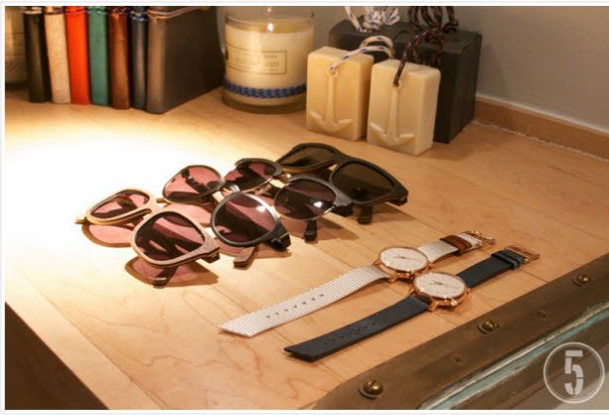

Children's clothing from Jeremiah - because your future kids need to look good for Instagram.

Jeremiah clothing is classic, effortless and can enhance your everyday fit with its timeless essentials and silhouettes.

Oh, Miansail You never disappoint. Catch them while they tour around in their vintage trailer.

Hi, SoSuperSam! I spy Urbanears headphones and 143.

One of our favorite brands from the show, Singer + Sargent, mixes tried and true menswear with a modern edge.

See you next time, Liberty!

Want info for the next show? Head to LibertyFairs.com.

Photos by: Phillip Cendana